"FLYING HOOFS"
Western - Feature
Starring JACK HOXIE

All indications point to the brother of Sheriff Frank Moody as the 'Mysterious' Raven who has been terrorizing the neighborhood for miles around and robbing indiscriminately. This bandit not only holds up automobiles, but steals cattle-money and anything that he can possibly carry off.

Banker Connor who holds a mortgage on the ranch belonging to the two brothers, forecloses. The younger brother, whom is suspected, loves the banker's daughter. Although she is the daughter of one of the richest men in the state and the sheriff's brother is suspected of all sorts of crimes and is now practically penniless, she loves him, not the younger.

The sheriff is too bashful to make any advances. At about this time the younger brother is captured, given a hasty trial, and sentenced to be hanged. The girl gives the sheriff an interesting tip just about the time that his younger brother is sentenced, which is to lead to the capture of the real bandit.

The sheriff slips into the jail and takes the place of his brother, unbeknown to the deputies on guard. With the deathcap on his head, the sheriff is lead to the gallows. But the Raven and his men appear and rescue him. After a mad flight, the sheriff handcuffs himself to the Raven, who turns out to be one of the town's most prominent citizens.

The brother is freed of all stigma of crime amid the plaudits of his fellow townspeople and the sheriff loses all his timidity when he sees the banker's daughter, who does not hesitate to fall into his arms.
